The aircraft, flying at intervals of about three minutes and an altitude of about 7,500 feet, were four-25X1 engine planes with single rudder assembly and retracted landing Thirty to thirty-five paratroopers, some with two parachutes, jumped from each plane at short intervals and landed close togother. Three captive balloons were hoisted about 1,600 feet in the vicinity of PSKOV. Two paratroopers jumped from each balloon. 25X1 Comment: According to previous reports, it is assumed that PanOV is a parachute center (probably one regiment and a parachute school). This report confirms previous observations and supplements the information on parachute practices held up to August 1949. The four-engine aircraft observed near POKCV were probably. stationed at the PSKOV airfield since such aircraft were seen at this field in February 1948. The number of paratroopers jumping from a four-engine plane was concordantly estimated at 30 to 35.
